

Do you have a hard time at your workplace?

Mistreating employees such as dismissing for their pregnancy, childbirth, taking childcare leave is prohibited by law.

Regardless of the worker's nationality (the status of residence), dismissing the worker because of pregnancy is illegal!

You were said that taking your childbirth leave/childcare leave can't be approved.

You were told to work as a part-time worker if you use short-time working.

You were demoted after taking childcare leave.

You had a pay cut after you took pre-birth maternity leave and postpartum maternity.

When you said you got pregnant, you were said that they would not cooperate with you for renewing your visa.

You were dismissed after you took childcare leave, using "Maternal Health Management and Guidance Measures."

For example,

For the following reasons,

- You got pregnant/gave a birth
- You took a day off because of morning sickness
- You took a maternity leave

you got this treatment.

- You got dismissed
- Your residence permit was not renewed
- Your pay was cut, etc.

That's illegal!

Express your feelings to the company clearly like this.

"I would like to continue working even after childbirth (taking childcare leave)!"

For the systems you can use in pregnancy/childbirth, please see the other side.

Furthermore,

If you are being harassed at work,

The systems you can use in pregnancy/childbirth/child-raising*

The systems and measures female workers can use in pregnancy and childbirth

- ◆ Pre-birth maternity leave, postpartum maternity leave
Female workers can take pre-birth maternity leave 6 weeks prior to the expected date of birth.
In principle, they are not allowed to work for 8 weeks after childbirth.
- ◆ Transfer to light work
Female workers can claim transfer to light work during pregnancy.
- ◆ Maternity healthcare management measures
If female workers get guidance from a doctor, etc. in the health checkups for pregnant women, they should tell that to the company to take measures.
- ◆ Restriction of hazardous work
Female workers are not allowed to work in a hazardous job where heavy goods are treated or poisonous gas is emitted.
- ◆ Childcare hours
Female workers who have a child younger than 1 year old can claim childcare hours, twice a day (30 minutes for each) in addition to break time.
- ◆ Restriction of overtime working, working on holidays, or working late at night
Employees can claim exemptions from overtime working, working on holidays, or working late at night.

The systems and measures male and female workers can use in child-raising (partial)

- ◆ Childcare leave
In principle, you can take childcare leave until a day before the first birthday of your child. This leave can be separated into two.
- ◆ Paternity childcare leave (childcare leave after childbirth)
This leave can be separately taken for up to 4 weeks within 8 weeks after the childbirth up to 2 times in addition to childcare leave.
- ◆ Working for shorter hours for childcare
There is a system of working for shorter hours for childcare where employees who are raising children younger than 3 years old can use if they wish.
- ◆ Nursing-care leave for children
Employees who are raising children before entering elementary school can take leave by hour (up to 5 days a year) (up to 10 days a year for those who have 2 children or more).
- ◆ Restriction of overtime working
Employees who are raising a child younger than 3 years old can claim exemptions from overtime working.
